International Railway Congress Association.

Formed as a result of the first International Railway Congress, held in Brussels, 1896; definitely organized at the second congress, held in Milan, 1897. The association is represented by an International Commission, having its seat at Brussels. The first meeting of the commission was held Feb. 20, 1898.
The organization continued to function until Oct. 1914, when, owing to the European War, it was forced to discontinue its activities, and it was formally dissolved Aug. 1, 1918. A new association was immediately constituted under the title International Railway Association, including only the allied and neutral countries at existing at that time.

In 1922 the earlier name, International Railway Congress Association was resumed. Publications of the original association and the one formed in 1919 are cataloged in the Library of Congress under the heading International Railway Congress Association.
